Dear AAC Administrators,

My name is Arlinda Fasliu and I am a PR Director for Earthwords: The Undergraduate Literary Review.

We at Earthwords know that some majors are often put to the wayside and forgotten about when it comes to offering opportunities to showcase their creative sides.

Thus, we are really trying to reach out to other majors this year in terms of getting the word out. Our submission deadline for the coming year is on October 15th. If you could relay this to your advisees, that would be great. Additionally, please feel free to share this information with any colleagues who may have a newsletter and feel that their students could benefit from being published in our publication.

The photo below is clickable and takes you to the submission page for Earthwords. I have attached the photo here as well as the original PDF for you to share as you see fit.

Thank you so much for your time and efforts in supporting a well-rounded student body. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to ask.

Best,

Arlinda Fasliu
